CONSTRUCTION PROJECT MANAGEMENT

Cleanroom and lab planning

We give you planning documentation for cleanrooms and chemical as well as biological labs – as new construction and for existing buildings. In doing so, we take all legal mandates and miscellaneous regulations into account.

Certain production areas, such as cleanrooms, are governed by special requirements for cleanliness of working systems and for ambient air that must be taken into account for both, construction engineering as well as the technical building infrastructure. Labs also present special requirements, primarily as it relates to technical building infrastructure. We have experience implementing the planning requirements for these special challenges and know the legal framework conditions and requirements.
